

Renee Most

Renee Most has worked as a Clinician in the Behavioral Healthcare field for the last 20 years. Focusing her work on families and individuals struggling with substance use and co-occurring disorders. She obtained her Master's Degree in addiction studies from The Hazelden Betty Ford Graduate Program in 2005.

Since this time, she has held both clinical and business development roles at several national treatment facilities. More recently Renee led the largest Collegiate Recovery Program in the nation at Augsburg University in Minneapolis.

Her passion lies in working with patients, families, and providers to improve the health and wellness of those struggling with substance use and mental health disorders. Renee currently lives in Minnesota with her husband and two sons.